Sarawak, an environmental crime hotspot

Sarawak is the largest of Malaysia’s thirteen States and one of two States located on the island of Borneo. Sarawak is located immediately north of the Equator between latitude 0° 50° and 5°N and longitude 109° 36' and 115° 40' E. It stretches some 800 kilometres along the northwest coast of Borneo, covering an area of 124,449.51 square kilometres. The rainforest of Borneo is acknowledged to be among the “worlds most distinct and species-rich”, a hotspot of biodiversity. Sarawak is divided into three regions - coastal lowlands comprising peat swamp as well as narrow deltaic and alluvial plains; a large region of undulating hills ranging to about 300 metres; and the mountain highlands extending to the Kalimantan border. The highest point of Sarawak is Mount Murud reaching 2,423 meters. Flora in Sarawak includes roughly 8,000 species of vascular plants, 2,000 tree species, 1,000 orchids, 757 ferns and 260 species of palm. Fauna in Sarawak includes roughly 185 species of mammal, 530 species of bird, 186 species of snake, 104 species of lizard and 113 species of amphibian.

Sarawak has a population of over 2.4 million and is a multicultural state with at least 27 ethnic groups, the largest of these being the Iban. The people of Sarawak practice a variety of religions including, Christianity, Islam, Buddhism, Taoism, Confucianism, ancestor worship, Baha’ism and animism. Unlike the Malaysian states on the Malaysian peninsula, where Islam is the predominant faith, the largest religious group in Sarawak are the Christians.

Despite being described in tourism ads as a “vast wilderness” Sarawak’s lush tropical rainforests are disappearing at an astonishing rate. Former Prime Minister of England, Gordon Brown stated in 2011 that the destruction of Sarawak’s rainforest is “probably the biggest environmental crime of our times...Malaysia's once vast pristine jungle has been stripped bare and enormous areas have been planted with oil palm in an environmental nightmare that shows no sign of slowing.” In February 2011, the Dutch NGO “Wetlands International” expressed their concern that “As the timber resource has been depleted, the timber companies are now engaging in the oil palm business, completing the annihilation of Sarawak’s peat swamp forests.” Total deforestation in Sarawak is 3.5 times as much as that for entire Asia, while deforestation of peat swamp forest is 11.7 times as much. The Sarawak State Planning Unit has openly expressed their intention to convert Native Customary Rights land to palm oil. In 2010, Minister for Land Development, James Masing stated that the government of Sarawak aims to convert a further 1 million hectares (2.5 million acres) of tropical forest to oil palm plantations by 2020 and that there is a need for “a more aggressive development” of Native Customary Rights land.
1. The “Stop Timber Corruption” Campaign

On the 18th February 2011, the Bruno Manser Fund launched a campaign to “Stop Timber Corruption”, focused on the Chief Minister of the Malaysian state of Sarawak, Abdul Taib Mahmud (“Taib”). Since 1981, Sarawak has been governed by Taib, an exceptionally powerful and corrupt man, who has abused his public office in a spectacular way to enrich himself and his closest family members.

While Taib and his family members have personally profited immensely from the destruction of the Borneo rainforest through logging and oil palm plantations, Sarawak’s indigenous communities have lost their land, the source of their livelihood and have been increasingly marginalized. IWGIA’s Report “The Indigenous World – 2012”, states, „Taib Mahmud and his family are causing discontent among the indigenous peoples and civil society in general. The Stop Timber Corruption campaign has built up international pressure against the corrupt Taib family and pressure to put a stop to timber corruption in Sarawak.“

Abdul Taib Mahmud has been Chief Minister of Sarawak since 1981 and is concurrently Finance Minister and Planning and Resources Minister of Sarawak. He has long been criticized for corrupt practices and abuse of office but Malaysian authorities have failed to take action against him, despite an ongoing investigation by the Malaysian Anti Corruption Commission (MACC).10

Taib and his family members have illegally acquired assets worth billions of dollars in Malaysia, Canada, the UK, Australia, the United States and other countries. As part of the campaign, BMF conducted research into Taib business in Malaysia and overseas which uncovered the vast dimensions of the family’s illicit assets. The findings exposed that Malaysian potentate “Taib” and his family have a stake in over 400 companies around the globe and hold illicit assets worth several billion US dollars.11

2. The aim of this report

The aim of this report is to build up international pressure against the corrupt Taib family and provide investigating bodies, journalists, Sarawakians and interested parties with detailed evidence on the Taib financial empire. It aims to demonstrate the financial and political control that Taib has over Sarawak and provide profiles on the Chief Minister and his family members, all of whom have financially benefited from the destruction of Sarawak’s rainforest.

We believe our research is showing merely the tip of the iceberg as many family assets are likely to be hidden overseas or in offshore districts where information is virtually impossible to obtain. The Bruno Manser Fund is therefore calling on anti-corruption and anti-money-laundering authorities worldwide to investigate the Taib family’s business activities.

10 The Star [Malaysia]: Taib Mahmud being investigated, says MACC, 09.06.11.
11 For details, see http://www.stop-timber-corruption.org/resources/Companies_linked_to_Taib_Mahmud_1.pdf
These assets should be frozen and restituted to the people of Sarawak, and the Taib family and their co-conspirators should be prosecuted for corruption, abuse of public funds, fraud, money laundering, tax evasion and other related crimes.

After bringing the case against Sakti, thereby revealing the Taib family business interests in the States, the Boyerts claimed they then faced a relentless, well-funded campaign to undermine their reputation and to destroy them financially. Ross Boyert, aged 60, was found dead in a Los Angeles hotel room in October 2010 in a rare case of suspected suicide. 5. What is a “PEP”?

There is no single, universally agreed upon definition of a “politically exposed person” (PEP), a term that has recently become key for international anti-corruption and anti money-laundering efforts. By way of example, the term “politically exposed person” (PEP) has been defined by Swiss authorities in the relevant Anti-Money Laundering Ordinance, as follows:

- Persons holding prominent public positions such as “Heads of State or Government, senior politicians at national level, senior government, judicial, military or party officials at national level, senior executives of state-owned companies of national importance” and
- “Companies and people identified as having close family ties or personal or business connections to the aforementioned persons.”

Other countries are using similar definitions. It is important to note that not only leading politicians but also their family members or close business associates have to be regarded as PEPs.

6. Specific due diligence requirements for financial service providers when dealing with PEPs

Since the mid-1980s, new rules in dealing with assets of politically exposed persons have consistently been added to the international debate in response to a number of cases that have arisen. Switzerland was the first ever country, in 1998, to introduce concrete rules on how banks are to handle assets of politically exposed persons (PEPs). These rules have since been further elaborated.

Swiss legislation for example does not forbid a financial intermediary from having a business relationship with politically exposed persons or receiving assets from them – provided, naturally, that the assets are not the proceeds of crime, including corruption. The Swiss Anti-Money Laundering Ordinance, however, imposes strict conditions on handling money from PEPs. It obliges financial intermediaries to treat any business dealings with PEPs as a higher-risk business relationship and to label them as such for internal use. Therefore, financial service providers, according to anti-money laundering regulations, must clarify their business relationship with PEPs and always classify any such business relationship as higher risk. They must perform additional clarifications, including identifying the origin of the assets deposited, the origins of a PEP’s wealth, the background of larger income payments and other details.

If there is a simple suspicion, the financial intermediary is held to report it. Simultaneously to reporting its suspicions, the financial intermediary must freeze the PEP’s entrusted assets for five working days. Within this period, the financial intermediary may receive a ruling from the criminal prosecution authorities upholding the freeze. Similar legislations are in force in many countries that are members of the Financial Action Task Force (FATF).
7. The Taib Family

Chief Minister Abdul Taib bin Mahmud ("Taib") is the eldest of 10 children born to Mahmud Abang Yahya and Wan Hamidah in Sarawak, on 21 May 1936. To understand the relevance of Taib’s family connections, we need to look at his relationship to the previous Chief Minister of Sarawak. Abdul Rahman Ya’kub, the third Chief Minister of Sarawak is Taib’s uncle. It was through this connection that Taib entered politics in 1963 and which ultimately led him to his thirty year grasp of power over Sarawak.

Taib concurrently holds the offices of Chief Minister, Finance Minister, as well as that of State Planning and Resources Minister, which gives him enormous political and economic power. Sarawak’s largest private company, large-scale logging and plantation interests and the control of log exports are concentrated in the hands of the Taib family. One of the Chief Minister’s brothers, Mohamad Ali, and one of his sons, Sulaiman, have also been involved in politics and one daughter, Hanifah, and a first cousin, Hamed Sepawi, run various media outlets in Sarawak. In 1995, Asiaweek identified nine “political warlords” in Asia, Taib Mahmud was described as having “no private army, but he runs the closest thing to a Malaysian political fiefdom. Kuala Lumpur leaves the Sarawak chief minister alone in return for keeping the state sweet at election time”. Taib has recently been described by Singapore-based political scientist Faisal S. Hazis as having “total control over Sarawak.”

Despite earning a moderate official salary per year in his role as Chief Minister of Sarawak, MYR 590,000 (USD 194,000), Taib is known for his magnificent wealth and string of assets. He is often seen travelling in a Rolls Royce, sporting a designer suit, wearing a walnut-sized ruby ring and he is residing in a well-guarded palace-like mansion in Kuching. Famously, in 2010 he told rural voters in Sarawak: “I have more money than I can ever spend.”

8. Taib’s modus operandi

During his thirty years of iron grip over Sarawak, Taib Mahmud has systematically plundered a country once rich in natural resources, particularly oil, gas and timber. While the proceeds of the oil and gas extraction are mostly benefiting Malaysia’s federal government, the Sarawak state government enjoys total autonomy as to the use of the state’s forest resources and state lands.

Taib has abused his position as Chief Minister, State Finance Minister, and Planning and Resources Minister, to award his family members vast timber concessions, palm oil concessions, state contracts and directorships in Sarawak’s largest companies. In 2009, his three ministries controlled 49.6% of the state’s operating expenditure of MYR 1.19 billion (USD 391 million) and 80% of the state’s development expenditure of MYR 3.08 billion (USD 1.01 billion), with the other ten ministers sharing the rest.

Taib’s position as Planning and Resources Minister means that he has ultimate control over the granting of timber concessions in Sarawak that are worth several billion dollars. Already in the late 1980s, family members and clients loyal to Taib Mahmud were estimated to control over 1.6 million hectares of timber concessions in Sarawak. That constitutes more than 10% of the total land mass of Sarawak. Political observer Daniel Lev has described how Taib abused his power over the allocation of timber concessions in Sarawak: “Timber rent is used by the national ruling party for political expenditures during election time and for financing business objectives of ruling party linked conglomerates.”

In 2011, the Bruno Manser Fund released information detailing the Taib family’s connection to over 400 companies in 25 countries and offshore districts. These include many offshore finance centers such as the British Virgin Islands, Jersey, Bermuda and the Cayman Islands. Although Taib’s own name is rarely listed as a director or shareholder, it is his family members who are known to act as nominees for the Chief Minister. A 2001 PhD thesis by US economist David W. Brown, states that:

“While the Chief Minister himself occupies no publicly recorded directorships or shareholdings in any of the timber concessions said to belong to him, the Chief Minister’s family members...occupy managerial_positions on the boards of the timber concessions of the top four major Sarawak timber conglomerates.”

The Taib family runs a well-diversified financial empire with interests in Sarawak’s largest timber and logging companies (Ta Ann, Samling, WTK, Sanyan), monopolistic control of log exports (Achi Jaya Transportation), plantations (Sarawak Plantation), construction (Cahya Mata Sarawak Berhad, Naim Holdings, Titan Management), electricity supply (Sarawak Cable, Sarawak Energy), property development (Custodev, Kumpulan Parabena) and state media (Cats FM, New Sarawak Tribune) to name a few.

The flagship of the Taib family empire is the largest private company in the state, Cahya Mata Sarawak Berhad (CMS), with net assets totalling 2.4 billion Malaysian ringgit (USD 788 million) in 2010. CMS has been awarded some of the state’s largest contracts including the MYR 300 million (USD 98 million) construction of the State Legislative Assembly building in Kuching, a contract over the maintenance of all state roads in Sarawak (4000 kms) and a 15-year concession to maintain 643 kms of federal roads. Commonly referred to as „Chief Minister and Sons“, the Taib family own over 80% of CMS, but recent annual reports have raised questions over the true beneficiary of the company’s wealth. In 2009, Taib’s first wife Lejla Chaleeki died. Since 2002, she had been the single largest shareholder of the company, but CMS’ latest annual reports still list her as a major shareholder. The largest shareholder of CMS is Majaharta Sdn. Bhd. which is jointly owned by Taib’s two daughters, Jamilah and Hanifah.

Since his appointment as Sarawak Chief Minister in 1981, Taib and his immediate family members have transferred considerable parts of their ill-gotten assets overseas to countries including Canada (Sakto group of companies), the United States (Sakti Corporation and related companies), Australia (Sitehost Pty Ltd), the United Kingdom (Ridgeford Properties), Hong Kong (Richfold Investment Ltd.) and to a number of offshore finance centers, namely the British Virgin Islands. While the above-mentioned companies officially name Taib family members as their shareholders or directors, it is believed that many other companies are held through nominees.

Sakti International, a US property development company owned by the Taib family was incorporated in 1987 in California. In a court deposition, Sakti admits that „beginning September 10, 1987, Sakti’s designated Chief Executive Officer, Secretary and Chief Financial Officer was Mahmud Taib“, the Chief Minister’s son. Significantly, the deposition also admits that the shareholders of Sakti are none other than Taib’s children and brothers. Whilst it is Taib’s relatives who are publicly registered as the official shareholders and directors of the companies, a private agreement ensures that the shares are actually held in trust for Taib. Official documents leaked by a former employee prove that it is a system of private deals that ensures that half of these shares „are held in trust for the Chief Minister.“32 One of Sakti International’s early public documents lists the Chief Minister as a director.33

The Ottawa (Canada) - based Sakto group of companies, mainly active in real estate and property development, is currently run by daughter Jamilah and her Canadian husband, Sean Murray.34 In 2011, Sean Murray stated that „Sakto, Sakti and Ridgeford are not and have never been funded by Mr Taib Mahmud“ but later that year Taib admitted on video that he had given money to his daughter to start the business “It started 20 to 30 years ago. I gave money to my daughter because I was resigning from Federal Government. I got a gratuity and gave some money to her to start a new business, it thrived... It got successful and from successful they go to do business in London”.35

9. Portraits of individual Taib family members

9.1 Abdul Taib bin Mahmud ("Taib")

Birth - 21-05-1936
IC Number - 360521-13-5015
Spouse - 1st wife - Lejla Chalecki Taib
2nd wife - Ragad Waleed Al-Kurdi Taib
Children - (4 Children) Jamilah Hamidah Taib, Mahmud Abu Bekir Taib, Sulaiman Abdul Rahman Taib, Hanifah Hajar Taib.

Principal role - Chief Minister of Sarawak since 1981. Corruption and abuse of public funds to enrich himself, his family and his political allies through land appropriation and destructive logging of the Borneo rainforest.

Global business
Due to his prominent public role, Taib runs his businesses almost exclusively through third parties, initially through his family members and in-laws, during the last years increasingly through other nominees. As his name rarely ever appears, it is extremely difficult to trace the real extent of Taib’s global network of corruption and illicit assets.

Official records show him only in the following positions:
Australia: Director of Australian Universities International Alumni Convention Pty Ltd.
Malaysia: Major shareholder of Mesti Bersatu Sdn. Bhd., a parent company for another 10 Malaysian companies with interests in the property, plantation and construction sector.

As heir to his late wife, Lejla, Taib is interested in another 23 Malaysian companies, including Cahya Mata Sarawak (CMS), and in the Australian company Sitehost Pty Ltd, the operator of the Adelaide Hilton hotel.

Estimated net worth - USD 15 billion

Early Life - Abdul Taib bin Mahmud is an ethnic Muslim Melanau from Miri. He is the eldest of 10 children of Mahmud Abang Yahya and Wan Hamidah Hj. Ya’akob. Born into impoverished circumstances, Taib’s grandfather was a fisherman while his father was a carpenter with Shell Petroleum in Miri. Taib was only able to complete his primary and secondary education due to the financial assistance of his uncle (Rahman Ya’kub) due to growing up in „very poor surroundings“. In 1956, he won a Colombo Plan scholarship to read law at the University of Adelaide. Taib married Lejla Chalecki, (the mother to his four children) in 1959, whom he met while studying at Adelaide.

After graduating, Taib Mahmud worked for one year as a judge associate in Australia before returning to Sarawak as Crown Counsel in 1962. Thanks to his uncle’s links with UMNO (United Malys National Organisation), West Malaysia’s leading political party, he was soon appointed to the state cabinet and later federal cabinet where he spent 13 years in various portfolios. Taib ended his federal career in 1981 and returned to Sarawak to become Chief Minister and President of Parti Pesaka Bumiputera Bersatu (PBB). It is interesting to note here that Taib has been active in the state government since Sarawak became part of Malaysia in 1963.

Scandals surrounding Taib as Chief Minister of Sarawak

In 2007, a scandal exposed by the Japanese tax authorities revealed that tens of millions of US dollars had been paid in secret, illegal kickbacks by Japanese shipping companies exporting timber from Sarawak. The money was paid directly to Hong Kong companies linked to the Chief Minister’s brother, Onn Mahmud. The Japanese cartel concluded an agreement in 1981 with Malaysia’s Dewan Niaga Sarawak regarding lumber transport. Dewan Niaga is a state-affiliated agency in charge of lumber export control and is headed by Onn Mahmud, one of Taib’s brothers.42

In 2008, Indonesian newspaper, Tribun Pontianak, revealed that around 30 shipments of illegal Indonesian logs were imported into Sarawak and re-exported to other countries every month. Chief Minister Taib Mahmud was implicated in this timber scam.43 With scarcely 5% of Sarawak’s rainforest remaining untouched, Taib is now aggressively pursuing his pet project, the multi-billion dollar “Sarawak Corridor of Renewable Energy” (SCORE), an immense industrialisation project comprising 50 hydroelectric dams, palm oil plantations, smelter plants and mining projects. The projects are being widely opposed by local communities who are against environmental destruction of their land and government-linked corruption.44 The dams are set to displace tens of thousands of indigenous people and will ultimately benefit the Taib family and his close political allies.

Taib is regarded by many Malaysians as being the „Chief Minister“ of Sarawak.45 In June 2011, the Malaysian Anti-Corruption Commission (MACC) announced that Taib was under investigation for allegations of timber corruption.46 The UK, Swiss, German and Australian Governments are now monitoring Taib assets abroad and the ongoing investigation in Malaysia. In 2010, Malaysian opposition party, the Democratic Action Party (DAP), released figures showing that Taib Mahmud had failed to account for a staggering MYR 4.8 billion (USD 1.58 billion) of government expenditure in the previous three years alone.47

In August 2011, whistleblower website, „Wikileaks“, leaked a confidential cable from the US embassy in Malaysia to the State Department, Washington. It noted that “Taib and his relatives are widely thought to extract a percentage from most major commercial contracts - including those for logging - awarded in the state.” A source had told the US embassy that Taib appointed “compliant local leaders” from various tribes into “financially rewarding” government positions as a means to stifle potential opposition. The US embassy’s Political Section Chief concluded after a visit to Sarawak’s state capital in 2009, that:

“the Sarawak State government remains highly corrupt and firmly in the hands of it’s chief minister.” In November 2009, the US embassy reported to Washington that “Chief Minister Taib remains unchallenged after 27 years in office, his government doles out timber-cutting permits while patrolling the under-developed state using 14 helicopters, and his family’s companies control much of the economy.”48

In the same month, investigative portal, „Sarawak Report“, exposed how Taib Mahmud had a US$5million a year contract with the British-based PR company FBC Media to conduct a global media campaign in his favour. The scandal implicated some of the world’s most prestigious broadcasting networks including the BBC, CNBC and CNN. Both CNBC and the BBC have made public apologies since the broadcasts. Recently, critical reports about Taib Mahmud have been aired by the world’s media including ABC, Al-Jazeera, Canadian Global News, Australia’s SBS One Dateline, The Independent, Guardian, The Sunday Times, Daily Mail, The Economist and Evening Standard.

Despite being a devout Muslim, Taib is known to be highly superstitious and is reliant on the spiritual guidance of bomohs (witch doctors). In April 2011, Taib’s cousin, Salleh Jaffarrudin, publically chastised one of the Chief Minister’s bomohs in front of the Malaysian media. Jaffarrudin stated: “We want to save Sarawak from being ruled by a leader who has completely succumbed and surrendered, his mental faculties, spiritual and natural physical capabilities to the influence of foreign witchcraft apparatus currently encircling him.”

On January 16th 2011, 75-year old Taib married for the second time to Syrian born Ragad Waleed Al-Kurdi, in her late twenties.

Formerly a policeman, Dato Ibrahim Mahmud joined the Polis Diraja Malaysia on the 12th March 1964 as a constable and rose through the inspectorate and gazetted ranks to full superintendent before his retirement in March 1998. During his service in the Royal Malaysian Police, he served as Staff Officer at the Narcotic Criminal Investigation Department, Sarawak, and was officer in charge of police district. He was also seconded to the Anti-Corruption agency, Kuching, as a senior investigation officer. It is not just Taib who has been involved in politics in Sarawak. Ibrahim’s son (Taib’s nephew), Datuk Ahmad Ibrahim, is PBB (Parti Pesaka Bumiputera Bersatu) Batu Kawah division chairman and a close friend of the state Minister of Land Development, James Jemut Masing.

Information obtained by the Companies Commission of Malaysia (SSM) has shown that Taib Mahmud secretly handed vast areas of state and native customary rights territory to companies owned by Ibrahim at nominal prices. One such deal, in April 2009, saw Ibrahim and two of his sons receive a large concession of Native Customary Rights land in the Iban community of Pasai Siong, Sungai Retus, for half a million Malaysian ringgit (USD 165,000). They sold it on six weeks later for the dramatically increased sum of seven and a half million ringgit (USD 2.4 million), i.e. fifteen times higher.

Leaked information from the Land and Survey Department of Sarawak shows that Ibrahim’s company Amgreen Gain Sdn. Bhd paid under 2.5 million ringgit (USD 823,000) for land that was then sold on in February 2011 for over 18 million ringgit (USD 5.9 million). Sarawak Pulp Industries Sdn. Bhd., another Ibrahim venture, has been given over 10,000 hectares of oil palm estate, for less than half a million ringgit (USD 165,000). The company was also commissioned to construct the giant Similajau Industrial Park in Bintulu which is part of the Sarawak Corridor of Renewable Energy (SCORE).

The Kuching-based radio station, CATS FM, was up until early 2012 controlled by Ibrahim and is still owned by Taib’s daughter, Hanifah Hajar Taib. CATS FM is the only private radio station in Sarawak that Taib, in his capacity as Chief Minster, has agreed to give a licence to.

Ibrahim died in February 2012 of a stroke at the age of 69 at the Kuching specialist hospital and was buried in Demak Jaya Muslim cemetery in Jalan Bako, Kuching.

Global business

Malaysia: A director of 11 Malaysian companies, including Achi Jaya Holdings, his main business outfit, and a shareholder of another 23 companies. Controls all timber exports from Sarawak through Dewan Niaga (Sarawak) Sdn Bhd and Achi Jaya Transportation Sdn Bhd.

Australia: As majority shareholder of Kesuma Holdings Pty, Onn Mahmud controls at least five Australian property and hotel companies.

Canada: Founding director of Sakto Development Corporation, a major Taib family outfit active in the property business.

Hong Kong: Majority shareholder of Richfold Investment Ltd., a sister company of Regent Star Co., which has been used to cash in kickbacks from Japanese shipping companies carrying logs from Sarawak to Japan. Through his Hong Kong business secretary, Shea Kin Kwok, Onn Mahmud is also involved in a number of other Hong Kong companies, some of which are holding stakes in Malaysia.

Onn Mahmud was educated at Syracuse University, New York, graduating with a B.Sc (Finance) in 1976 and an M.B.A. from St. John University in New York in 1978.

Onn has been involved in Taib family companies since the early 1980s, around the time that Taib assumed office as Chief Minister of Sarawak. In 1983, Onn Mahmud and Taib’s children Mahmud Bekir and Jamilah founded the property development company Sakto Corporation in Canada. Since 2000, the company has been involved in some of Ottawa’s biggest property deals. From 1985-1991, Onn Mahmud was a director of Sime Darby Australia Limited, a subsidiary of Sime Darby Berhad. Sime Darby Plantation is one of the world’s largest listed palm oil companies producing 6% of the world’s crude palm oil.

Onn’s main business vehicle in Malaysia is Achi Jaya Holdings, the parent company of Achi Jaya Plantations and Achi Jaya Transportation. A 2011 land deal by Achi Jaya Plantations gives us an idea of the worth of Onn’s plantation lands: Achi Jaya Plantations offered to sell 30,000 acres of oil palm land in Johor, Malaysia, for MYR 923 million (USD 301 million).

Dewan Niaga (Sarawak)’s and Achi Jaya Transportation’s monopolistic control of all timber exports from Sarawak has made Onn an extremely powerful and wealthy man. He has thus not only been able to collect systematic kickbacks from timber exporters but the position has also allowed him to manipulate log export figures at his discretion.

In 2007, a scandal was exposed by the Japanese tax authorities revealing how tens of millions of US dollars had been paid in kickbacks by Japanese shipping companies exporting timber from Sarawak. The money was paid directly to companies in Hong Kong owned or controlled by Onn. When faced with prosecution for not declaring these bribes, the Japanese timber companies explained that the Sarawak government does not allow export permits unless they negotiate with Onn Mahmud’s Achi Jaya Transportation.63

In 2007, Onn was taken to court in Australia by former consultant Farok Majeed who was suing Onn for millions of dollars. In the middle of the court case, Farok Majeed went missing and has not been traced since. Majeed’s court case64 makes plain that he had been engaged by Onn to work on a number of expensive property developments in Sydney. He included in the bill his fees for development and management of Ten Wylde Street in Sydney. Ten Wylde Street is located in the prime Sydney Harbour location Potts Point and was sold for a record breaking AUD 20 million (USD 21 million).

Majeed’s court deposition cites 1902, Peach Gardens, as the Onn family home in Singapore and 26 Carrara Road, Vaucluse, as their Australian residence. 26 Carrara Road has a cliff top swimming pool looking out over a marine reserve and a view over Sydney harbour.65 His family owns the boutique Valentine on George hotel66, and the Cafe Kasturi67 and Golden Cinnamon restaurants in Sydney. Onn and his family also own the four star Tanjung Sanctuary hotel on the Malaysian island of Langkawi.68

Recent court documents also reveal that Onn Mahmud was an original director and shareholder of the US property development company Sakti International Corporation, which was incorporated in 1987.69 The court deposition goes on to confirm that Onn is still a shareholder of the company and documents published by Sarawak Report show that half of these shares are held in trust for Taib Mahmud.

9.4 Mohd Tufail bin Mahmud ("Tufail") - Brother

Birth - 28-09-1952

IC Number - 520928-13-5025

Spouse - Suhing Bujang

Children - Anita Hamidah Tufail, Mohamad Farouk bin Mohamad Tufail, Mohammad Yakub bin Tufail

Estimated net worth – USD 600 million

Global business – Malaysia: controlling shareholder of the Sanyan Group; director of 35 Malaysian companies and major shareholder of another six companies. No known business connections outside Malaysia.

Tufail owns and controls one of Sarawak's largest companies, Sanyan Group, which is active in the timber business. The conglomerate is worth at least USD 400 million and is headquartered in Wisma Sanyan, Sibu, the tallest building in Sarawak. He is a director of Song Logging Company, a subsidiary of logging giant WTK, shareholder of Taib security firm Dayacop and many others in Sarawak. Insiders say that Tufail shares his brother Taib’s belief in black magic.

In 2010, a former business partner of Tufail, Dato Ting Check Sii, took him to court for unfair dismissal. Ting’s revealing court deposition describes how the Taib family employ nominees to disguise favouritism by the Chief Minister in the granting of state licenses and concessions:

> “In 1987, I set up Sanyan Lumber Sdn Bhd which was given a timber concession. The shares of the company are held by me (50%) and Draman @ Morshidi bin Omar (50%) as a nominee of Datuk Tufail. Datuk Tufail told me that he needed to use a nominee because his brother was then and still is the Minister for Resource Planning. Datuk Tufail now denies Draman is his nominee, even though Datuk Tufail and I are the only joint bank signatories for the company.”

For 25 years, Ting partnered Taib’s younger brother Tufail Mahmud as the co-owner of Sanyan Wood Industries. Ting confided to third parties that the Chief Minister had personally said to him: "If you offer my brother more than 50% of the shares, then there will be more concessions for you!" Sanyan’s first venture in 1983 was Binta Corporation Sdn Bhd. The Ting court deposition explains that this was one of a series of shipping companies, which benefited from contracts with Archipelago Shipping (today Achi Jaya Transportation) to provide transportation services from Tanjung Manis Port. Archipelago Shipping had in turn been handed a monopoly over handling all shipping in Sarawak by the Chief Minister and was entirely owned by brother Onn.

In 2011, Sarawakian civil society activist, Hii Tiong Huat openly questioned the leasing of state land in Sarawak to Tufail Mahmud. He claimed the land was "the site of a former airfield and was initially used by SUPP (Sarawak United Peoples Party) to set up the United College Sarawak." In 2004, the land was mysteriously leased out to Tufail’s company, Esprit Wealth.
Photographs of the Tufails' lavish lifestyle are widespread on the internet. They have been photographed flaunting expensive jewellery and gowns at exuberant wedding parties in Sarawak\textsuperscript{76}, residing in a mansion with 27 bedroom suites in Sibu\textsuperscript{77} and taking flights in the Chief Minister's private jet.
9.5 Raziah @ Rodiah binti Mahmud ("Raziah") – Sister

Birth - 24-11-1955
IC Number - 551124-13-5080
Spouse - 1st husband - Abu Bakar Baba
2nd husband - Robert Geneid
Children - (Seven children) Elia Geneid Sutter, Esha Abas Geneid, Amira Geneid, Ewan Saufi Abas, Mo Geneid, Alia Geneid, Aishah Geneid

Estimated net worth – USD 500 million

Global business – Malaysia: Director of 20 companies and shareholder of another 13 companies.

Raziah attended business studies at the University Technology Mara, Malaysia, and is a licensed company secretary. In August 2000, Raziah became The Honorary Consul of the Republic of Poland in Sarawak. She is also on the board of directors for Sarawak Tourism. Malaysian Tatler has described Raziah as "a frequent traveller, flying around the world to wheel and deal." Insiders say that Raziah and her "bomoh" (witch doctor) have a large influence over Taib.

Raziah has benefited from massive public contracts through shareholdings in construction companies such as Kumpulan Parabena (net assets in 2010: MYR 129 million, USD 42 million), and the Taib family flagship company, Cahya Mata Sarawak Berhad. Kumpulan Construction, one of Kumpulan Parabena's subsidiaries, was granted a MYR 880 million (USD 287 million) loan by Malaysia's RHB bank in June 2010 despite the company's comparatively modest annual turnover of MYR 43 million (USD 14 million).

Official documents obtained from the Malaysian Companies Commission have also shown that Raziah and her husband control the "Royal Mulu Resort" in Sarawak's UNESCO World Heritage Mulu National Park through Borsamulu Resort Sdn, Bhd. The construction of the hotel was responsible for the forced acquisition of Native Customary land from the indigenous Berawan people of Sarawak. Raziah's family own the "Al Amar Lebanese Cuisine" restaurant in Kuala Lumpur and the "Miri Marriott" hotel in Sarawak. Raziah and her brother (Taib) have some interesting connections to the tax haven of Monaco, where it is believed Taib assets may be hidden. In 2008, Prince Albert of Monaco visited the Raziah-owned hotel, the "Royal Mulu Resort", on a highly publicised visit. Later, in 2010, Raziah and her family attended an Islamic Fashion Show in Monaco along with the Prime Minister of Malaysia and Taib Mahmud. The event was to raise money for the Prince of Monaco's environmental trust, the "Prince Albert II of Monaco Foundation", and the Malaysian delegation donated 100,000 Euros to the charity.

Raziah has benefited from being granted thousands of hectares of oil palm plantation in Sarawak from Taib. In a series of deals between 2005 and 2008, Raziah was handed land amounting to roughly 20,000 hectares of forest reserve land. She has also benefited from converting vast amounts of Native Customary Rights land in Sibu to oil palm estate. In another conflict of interest, Elia Geneid, Raziah's eldest daughter, was granted 9,320 ha of palm oil concessions in NCR land in Bintulu. Elia follows her mother’s lavish lifestyle, her 2007 wedding was reported as having “more chandeliers, tuxedos and estate jewellery than a Cecille B DeMille epic”. In December 2011, Quality Concrete Holdings, a company that Raziah has shares in and previously directed, was ordered by the Kuching High Court to pay natives of Sebangan 160,000 Malaysian ringgit (USD 52,000) for encroaching on 3,305 hectares of native customary rights land. The natives claim their land was damaged as a result of road construction, extraction of timber and water pollution.

Estimated net worth – USD 100 million

Global business

Malaysia: Seven years after his death, Arip is still listed as a director of two Malaysian companies and a shareholder of eleven further companies.

Arip was widely regarded as one of Taib’s most trusted siblings and a key business partner. Born in Miri on 28th January 1957, he attended Sekolah Tuanku Abdul Rahman, SC 1970-1974, Taylor’s College Matriculation 1974 and Curtin University of Technology, Perth, Australia (DIP Business) 1994-1996. As of 2000, he was married with 9 children.89 Arip died in 2005 at the Tan Tock Seng Hospital in Singapore due to lung cancer.90

According to the 1998 report “High Stakes” by the World Rainforest Movement and Forests Monitor, Arip Mahmud became a Director of Malaysian logging giant Rimbunan Hijau in 1995. Rimbunan Hijau, one of Sarawak’s largest timber conglomerates, has been destroying the world’s rainforests from Malaysia and Indonesia to Gabon, Papua New Guinea, Vanuatu, New Zealand and Russia.91 Arip’s former wife Gertie was previously a shareholder of Rimbunan Hijau subsidiary Jaya Tiasa from 2002-2007.92

According to a recent California court deposition by former Taib aide Ross Boyert, Arip was an original director and shareholder of the US property development company, Sakti International, when it was incorporated in 1987. Arip’s family also have assets in Australia.93 In 2011, the CEO of Greenpeace Australia Pacific, Dr. Linda Selvey, personally wrote to Australian Prime Minister Julia Gillard, backing requests by the Bruno Manser Fund for an investigation into the Taib family’s string of investments in Australia. The Taib family is known to control „its wealth through a series of inter-locking offshore trusts.“94

A controversial deal, in 2004, saw Arip Mahmud make a 40 million Malaysian ringgit (USD 13.2 million) profit by selling on land given to him by Taib to crony timber company Rimbunan Hijau. Although Arip died in 2005, his family are still benefiting from their close family connection to the Chief Minister. Azerina has shares in the hotel chain „360“, with boutique and business hotels in Kuching and Brunei95 and is a director of the company who are managing the „Plaza Merdeka“ shopping complex in Kuching.96 Arip’s wife and children have shares in various enterprises in Sarawak through the company Mesti Bersatu.

9.20 Richard Alexander John Curtis – Taib key helper

Birth – 20-11-1951
IC Number – 511120-07-5547

Estimated net worth – USD 20 million
Global business – Malaysia: Key figure of the Taib family business empire through his role as group managing director of Taib family-controlled Cahya Mata Sarawak (CMS) and director of financial services provider K&N Kenanga Holdings.

British lawyer Richard Curtis is the Group Managing Director of the Taib flagship company, Cahya Mata Sarawak Berhad. Taib’s dead wife, sons and daughters own over 80% of the company, which is said to be the largest private company in the state. Richard Curtis is also a director of K&N Kenanga Holdings Berhad and Kenanga Investment Bank Berhad, which Taib’s family have major shares in, and are considered to be a joint venture between the Taib family and Deutsche Bank.

Curtis was appointed to the Board of CMSB on 4 September 2006. He graduated with a Bachelor of Law (LL.B.) degree from University of Bristol, UK, and is a Sloan Fellow of the London Business School. He was Chief Executive Officer of The Melium Group, a leading Malaysian retail company, from 1997 to 2000. He served as Solicitor, working initially with top international law firm, Norton Rose, in London and latterly in-house with Jardine Matheson & Co. in Hong Kong.

Richard Curtis is mentioned in this report as he plays a key role as aide of the deeply corrupted Taib family. It is highly likely that Richard Curtis has key inside knowledge on the Taib family’s illicit assets and the Taibs’ modus operandi. CMS has a track record of receiving untendered public contracts worth millions of dollars and holds a monopoly over cement and other construction materials in Malaysia’s largest state. The company has also massively benefited from the Bakun dam construction which has been labelled by Transparency International as a “monument of corruption”. Richard Curtis has been named by the Bruno Manser Fund on a blacklist of “Taib’s foreign helpers.”

Appendix 3: The Bruno Manser Fund

The Bruno Manser Fund is committed to maintaining the threatened tropical rainforests with their rich plant and animal life, and to campaigning, in particular, for the rights of the peoples who inhabit the rainforests. Given that Bruno Manser, our founder and president for many years, spent several years living with the Penan in the Malaysian federal state of Sarawak on the island of Borneo, our commitment is focused primarily on this people and on protecting the forests of Sarawak.

During his lifetime, Bruno Manser, one of the founders of the Bruno Manser Fund and its president for many years, was the best-known Swiss activist campaigning for the protection of the rainforests and the respect for human rights. Between 1984 and 1990, he lived in Sarawak with the Penan, one of the world’s last nomadic peoples still inhabiting the primeval forests. Confronted with the rampant destruction of the rainforest by the timber industry, he helped the Penan to resist further intrusion by the loggers and became the international mouthpiece for the threatened people of the primeval forest. He disappeared without trace after his last journey to Sarawak in May 2000. Several search parties failed to find him. On 10 March 2005, the cantonal civil court of Basel-Stadt officially declared him missing and presumed dead.

It was thanks to Manser’s commitment that the issue of tropical timber was placed on the political agenda in Switzerland, and his campaigns focused public attention on the catastrophic ecological and social consequences resulting from the clear cutting of the rainforests. The Penan and other indigenous groups are still waiting for the recognition of their rights to the land in the forest areas they have traditionally inhabited. In May 2012 the Bruno Manser Fund celebrated its 20th year.
